Subject: [EXTERNAL] Fire house issue

Out of town. This debate been going on for years now and we're no further ahead with the project. I would like to see the fire house retained but the narrative was it was too expensive to bring the building up to code. The town council determined based on expensive consultants the better solution was to join the Ross valley fire authority. Why didn't the "save the fire house" group come forward years earlier when we were having this debate?
